Sir Mark, 57, said the force had been "weak" on corruption and community policing was poor.

In an internal video message on his first day as commissioner, he pledged "urgent" enforcement of higher standards and the rooting out of corrupt and prejudiced officers.

He said a minority of rogue officers had been allowed to "corrupt our integrity". Sir Mark has

It was revealed at the weekend he will bring 130 new investigators into the Directorate of Professional Standards – his version of TV show Line Of Duty's anti-corruption AC-12 division.

Sir Mark has also promised better responses to serious crimes like drug dealing and burglary.

GAZ: WEIGHT OF WORLD WAS ON MY SHOULDERS

■ by TOM HUTCHISON

GARY Barlow was so disgusted by his weight when he piled on the pounds that he removed all the mirrors from his house.

The Back For Good singer, 51, ballooned to 17st 7lb after he was dropped as a solo artist by his record label in 1999, just three years after Take That split.

He said: "One morning I caught myself in the mirror and I thought, 'Oh no, I've got to do something about this.' So I did, I took down the mirrors – massive house, not one mirror.

"I had a little menu on any given day in 1999, breakfast spliff – wake and bake – 11am Quality Street, 1pm more food, 4pm the Quality Street I didn't eat in the morning.

"And then 6pm the doors are open, it's party time, Jack Daniels, oh and cigarettes." And Gary's misery was made even worse by ex-bandmate Robbie Williams' solo success.

He added: "I'd be walking along and someone would shout, 'Gary, Robbie's doing well.'"

Harry's 'OK on uniform'

HARRY has broken his silence after being banned from wearing his uniform for the Queen's funeral.

A spokesman for the prince, who will be in a black morning suit, said his "decade of military service is not determined by the uniform he wears".

It is also claimed that Harry's explosive tell-all book could be published in November.

Royal author Tom Bower believes it may be out just weeks after mourning for the Queen has ended.

But wife Meghan's team is combing through her future podcasts to avoid potential disputes with the royals, it has been claimed.

ON TRACK: Trains

Rail will ride to rescue

TRAINS will run through the night and road closures have been paused to ease trips for mourners paying their respects to the Queen.

Network Rail said limited services will operate after dark from tonight, while Her Majesty is lying in state in London's Westminster Hall. There will also be extra daytime trains on.

It is understood around 200 daily services will be added to timetables.

A Network Rail spokesman said: "The rail industry is doing all it can to ensure people can pay their respects, including a very limited service operating through the night."

Her Majesty arrives to crowds at palace

■ by JERRY LAWTON

THE Queen last night arrived at Buckingham Palace after millions of mourners watched her final journey home.

The hearse carrying her coffin slowed as it approached the palace gates shortly after 8pm.

It was met by a sea of mobile phone lights and camera flashes from the crowds waiting to pay their respects.

The Royal Family were united in grief inside the palace, where King Charles III, the Queen Consort, the new Prince and Princess of Wales William and Kate, Prince Harry and wife Meghan, and Prince Andrew waited to receive the Queen's coffin.

They were joined by the Queen's daughter Princess Anne and her husband Sir Tim Laurence, who accompanied it on its flight to London from Edinburgh.

Later today the coffin will be moved to Westminster Hall, where up to 1million people are expected to pay their last respects before Monday's funeral.

Her Majesty flew home to applause and tears from millions who watched her final journey from Scotland – where she died on Thursday aged 96 – to London. Thousands clapped as she was driven in a hearse away from St Giles' Cathedral in Edinburgh, where 26,000 had paid their respects during the 24 hours she lay in rest there.

FINAL JOURNEY: Crowds capture Queen's homecoming last night

The band of the Royal Regiment of Scotland – with their drums draped and muffled – greeted its arrival at Edinburgh Airport as three officers and 101 soldiers formed a guard of honour. The coffin was carried on to a Boeing C-17A Globemaster III for its flight to RAF Northolt under the Queen's call sign, "Kittyhawk". It took off at 5.42pm.

Website Flightradar24.com crashed as nearly 6million people tried to follow the progress of the flight. While in the air, the Princess Royal issued a tribute to her late mum, saying: "It has been an honour and a privilege to accompany her on her final journeys."

Prime Minister Liz Truss and Defence Secretary Ben Wallace stood in sombre silence as the aircraft touched down in London at 6.55pm under grey skies and drizzle.

Three officers and 96 non-commissioned officers and gunners of the Queen's Colour Squadron formed a guard of honour to greet the aircraft and transfer the coffin to a hearse for the drive to Buckingham Palace.

Among the officers on duty at RAF Northolt was singer Sir Rod Stewart's wife Penny Lancaster, 51, who is a special constable.

Mourners had waited for hours in driving rain to see the Queen make her final journey along the A40. It emerged last night she had been consulted on the hearse's design.

Many broke into applause as the cortege passed. Others wept. Some broke into the road to try to film the historic moment.

Outriders stopped with their heads bowed at the end of the journey, while a police officer at the gate saluted the Queen home for the final time.

'Police are too zealous'

POLICE have been "over-zealous" in their handling of anti-monarchy protesters, a former UK counter terrorism chief has said.

Nick Aldworth said the late Queen would not have wanted such "disruption".

He also backed the Met Police which has made it clear people "absolutely have a right to protest".

He said: "I met the Queen on countless occasions... she was an advocate of democracy and she would not want that level of disruption and interference with legitimate protest. They didn't act appropriately, it's overzealous."

Crown filming restarts

NETFLIX hit The Crown has resumed filming just days after the death of Queen Elizabeth II.

The Royal drama suspended shooting its sixth and final series in Barcelona when news of the Queen's passing broke.

Filming resumed this week with actress Elizabeth Debicki recreating Princess Diana's famous visit to Bosnian capital Sarajevo in 1997, just weeks before her death.

Show bosses have confirmed production will once again be suspended on the day of the Queen's funeral.

Fear of queues cheats

MOURNERS could fake disabilities to jump the queue to see the Queen lying in state, officials fear.

Over half of the 1million people expected to line up to pay their respects at Westminster Hall face being turned away despite waits as long as 35 hours.

Officials fear some will cheat their way into a "special access" line for people with disabilities and impairments – which is likely to be a wait of a few hours.

A source involved in the planning said: "We're worried that people will feign disabilities."

ROUGH RIDE: Family at hols let

by WILL STONE

CENTER Parcs was forced into a humiliating U-turn last night after earlier announcing it would boot out holidaymakers on the day of the Queen's funeral.

The company had said all five of its British holiday parks would close for 24 hours from 10am on Monday.

It would have seen guests halfway through their breaks forced to find another place to stay the night – or go home early. A family-of-four would have spent more than £1,000 to stay for a week at one of the parks. Furious customers blasted the decision. One wrote: "Our visit was for family time after my wife has gone through chemo, radio and surgery for grade 3 breast cancer.

"Talk about kicking a family that is already down. Thanks CP... won't be holidaying with you again."

Center Parcs said it had made the move "as a mark of respect and to allow as many of our colleagues as possible to be part of this historic moment".

It added: "We hope our guests will understand our decision."

But last night it reversed the decision

STRICTLY will move from its launch date amid schedule changes in the wake of the Queen's death, the BBC has announced.

The new series of the dance competition was due to return to screens on September 17, days before the late monarch's state funeral on September 19.

The launch show will now air on September 23 followed by the first live show on September 24.

The shift is one of many made in the days following the death of the Queen, with broadcasters including ITV announcing different programming.

OPRAH Winfrey has claimed she never set out to conduct a "bombshell" interview with Prince Harry and Meghan Markle.

During the duo's chat with the US TV star, 68, in March 2021, the couple made a raft of incendiary claims about their time in London, which sent shockwaves through the royals.

Among them were accusations of racism and how the family provided no help to Meghan who said she had suicidal thoughts.

She said: "I was surprised by the bombshell. I was just offering them a platform to tell their story."

Ace at hosting visitors

THE Queen would happily sit playing cards by herself while guests mingled, Theresa May said.

The former prime minister said she "wanted her guests to really feel at home, to enjoy the surroundings as much as she did and be able to relax".

Mrs May added: "There would be occasions when guests were milling around, chatting to each other, and the Queen was quite happy to sit in the room playing patience.

"She didn't feel the need for everybody to be paying attention to her."

All we can say is we hope the aliens are prepared!

What with the Ukraine war, the global energy crisis, a planet-wide pandemic and populist wallies as world leaders, they may want to stay away.

It'll be interesting to see what plans these space experts have for meeting the aliens. Pretty much every movie assumes they will be killing machines looking to wipe us out.

Apart from ET of course – and he only narrowly avoided us wiping him out. Whatever happens, today's "countdown" news is pretty groundbreaking.

WE'RE FLUSH WITH FACTS ABOUT LOOS

Toilet talk!

★FORGET "spending a penny" – it could be more like a quid soon!

According to experts at the British Toilet Association, free public loos could be axed by councils with money getting tighter, as we reported yesterday.

★But how much do you know about the handy conveniences?

JAMES MOORE has flushed out 15 fascinating facts about them...

1 The Romans had public latrines involving a long bench with holes cut in for multiple users. A shared sponge on a stick was provided in a bucket of water for cleaning. The city of Rome had 144 public toilets in 315AD.

2 London mayor Dick Whittington had a 128-seat public toilet built in the capital for both sexes in 1421, which emptied into the River Thames. It operated until it was burned down in the Great Fire of 1666.

3 But public toilets only became popular in Britain after plumber George Jennings introduced flushing ones at the Great Exhibition in 1851.

4 Dubbed "monkey closets", they were used by 675,000 people at the event. The phrase "spending a penny" originated in how much people were charged.

5 While public toilets for men sprang up in Victorian times, a lack of women's loos saw The Ladies Sanitary Association formed to campaign for more. Yet some proved so controversial that they were sabotaged.

6 In 2003, three paintings by Van Gogh, Gaugin and Picasso worth £4million were pinched from Manchester's Whitworth Art Gallery – and left in a nearby public loo, apparently to expose lax security.

7 In the same year artist Monica Bonvicini opened a toilet inside a cube of one-way glass near London's Tate Britain Museum. The user could see out, but passers-by couldn't see in.

8 Former public loos have been turned into everything from homes and cafés to art galleries, restaurants and nightclubs. One in Clapham, south London, is a wine bar called WC standing for "wine and charcuterie".

9 The 12-seat Theatre of Small Convenience opened in an old Victorian public toilet in Malvern, Worcs.

10 The number of public toilets in the UK has been falling, dropping by nearly 20% from 3,154 to 2,556 by 2021. St Asaph in Wales has the most per head.

11 Iceland has the most public toilets per population. The world's largest public toilet, the Porcelain Palace, is in the Chinese city of Chongqing and has 1,000 toilets.

12 Mount McKinley in Alaska has one of the world's highest public toilets – a whopping 14,000ft up.

13 The slang term "cottaging" for hook-ups between gay men came from the fact that Victorian public toilets were often designed to look like cottages. Actor Sir John Gielgud was arrested in 1953 in a London one. Singer George Michael was arrested in a Los Angeles loo in 1998.

14 There are up to 40,000 germs per square inch on the handle of a public toilet. The most complained about public loos are in Blackpool, said a recent study.

Mendy: 1 rape cleared

FOOTBALLER Benjamin Mendy has been found not guilty of the rape of a 19-year-old woman, on the direction of a judge.

Co-accused Louis Saha Matturie was also cleared of two counts of rape and one of sexual assault against the same woman.

It came as the prosecution offered no further evidence against the defendants on those four counts.

Matturie, 41, wiped tears from his eyes as he stood in the dock and the formal not guilty verdicts, as directed by the judge, were given by the jury foreman at Chester Crown Court.

Judge Stephen Everett asked jurors to continue to "faithfully" try the defendants on the multiple charges they still face.

Manchester City star Mendy, 28, of Cheshire, still denies seven counts of rape, one count of attempted rape and one count of sexual assault against six young women.

Matturie, of Eccles, Salford, the footballer's friend and fixer, still denies six counts of rape and three counts of sexual assault relating to seven young women.

Both men say if any sex did take place, it was consensual.

The trial continues.

Size chops keep chocs affordable

■ by IAN FLETCHER

SHOPPERS are being warned that treats such as choccy bars are set to carry on shrinking.

The controversial move of firms quietly reducing the size of favourite foods without cutting the price – nicknamed "shrinkflation" – has infuriated fans.

But according to a new report, the strategy by big brands is "perfectly legitimate" – and better than risking pricing shoppers out of buying the grub altogether.

David Sables, boss of Sentinel Management Consultants, told trade magazine The Grocer: "Everybody loves to slag off shrinkflation, sensationalise it and blame brands.

"But it is far better to say to people that you can have your favourite chocolate bar but it will be 10% smaller, than to price them out of the market or change the recipe so they don't want to buy it at all.

"It is a perfectly legitimate pricing lever, especially when a consumer product is up against a certain price point, as chocolate so often is."

Maria Castroviejo, Rabobank senior analyst for consumer foods, said: "When something is a discretionary purchase there is often a very clear mental barrier that consumers will not cross if a product becomes too expensive.

"Most companies have a clear idea of which products are most price sensitive. When costs go up, they have to choose between the lesser of the two evils."

WORKERS saw their pay fall behind sky-high inflation despite another hike in earnings.

The Office for National Statistics said regular pay, excluding bonuses, grew by 5.2% over the three months to July. But with soaring inflation – which reached 10.1% in July – taken into account, real pay tumbled by 3.9% year-on-year.

Yael Selfin, chief economist at KPMG UK, said: "Pay packets continue to be squeezed."

PUBS TO CALL LAST ORDERS

SEVEN in 10 pubs could be forced to close this winter due to the soaring cost of living.

Sacha Lord, of trade body the Night Time Industries Association, fears a massacre of boozers as energy prices spike. He said: "I think we are now entering probably the most critical week for my industry in my lifetime."

Kate Nicholls, of UKHospitality, added: "The Government must address rising energy costs."

Death of key aide mystery

ANOTHER high-ranking Russian official has died after a mystery accident.

Ivan Pechorin, picked by Vladimir Putin to head up resource development in the Arctic, apparently fell overboard while sailing.

The 39-year-old's body was found after a search lasting more than a day and a friend of the official says he was murdered.

His follows the deaths of Yevgeny Zinichev, emergencies minister and a former Putin bodyguard, last year. Oil tycoon Ravil Maganov, Alexander Tyulakov, a senior Gazprom official, and Vladislav Avayev, a former Kremlin official, have all died this year.

Iran in 'drone attack'

UKRAINE'S military has claimed for the first time that it encountered an Iranian-supplied suicide drone used by Russia on the battlefield.

Officials said Ukrainian troops encountered the triangular "Witness" unmanned drone near Kupiansk.

If confirmed, the device symbolises the deepening ties between Moscow and Tehran as the Islamic Republic's tattered nuclear deal with world powers hangs in the balance.

US intelligence publicly warned back in July that Tehran planned to send hundreds of the bomb-carrying drones to Russia to aid its war on Ukraine.

RATTLED Russians ran away "like Olympic sprinters" as Ukraine recaptured an area three times the size of Wales.

Vladimir Putin's invaders are surrendering en masse as "they understand the hopelessness of their situation", according to Ukrainian military intelligence chiefs.

Russian troops left in such a hurry meals were set out in canteens and loaded weapons abandoned.

One Ukraine commander said: "We hoped for success but didn't expect such cowardly behaviour.

"They abandoned their tanks and equipment – even grabbed bicycles to escape. They fled like Olympic sprinters."

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy's forces have recaptured 2,300 square miles in the past fortnight.

Russia has lost 53,000 soldiers since invading – taking its biggest losses in the past 24 hours – Ukraine's Ministry of Defence said.

One US official said: "The Russians are in trouble. Their weaknesses have been exposed and they don't have great manpower reserves or equipment reserves."

RUSSIA will "need years" to rebuild the army needed to take on Nato, a British intelligence update has suggested.

The Ministry of Defence wrote in a social media post: "Russia's conventional force designed to counter Nato is severely weakened.

"It will likely take years to rebuild this capability."

TASERED: Atkinson

Cop on Dalian charge

A FEMALE cop struck former Premier League star Dalian Atkinson with a baton as he was Tasered and kicked to death by her police officer boyfriend, a court heard yesterday.

PC Mary Ellen Bettley-Smith, 32, is accused of assault following the ex-footballer's death in 2016.

Former Aston Villa striker Atkinson, 48, died after being Tasered for 33 seconds and kicked twice in the head by PC Benjamin Monk in Telford, Shrops.

Monk was jailed for eight years for manslaughter.

Bettley-Smith has gone on trial at Birmingham Crown Court for a second time after a jury previously failed to reach a verdict.

Prosecutor Paul Jarvis said Bettley-Smith was twice interviewed by police. Mr Jarvis said: "She said she had hit Mr Atkinson with as much force as she could muster."

She may have acted "out of anger" or because she had been told by Monk, "Fking hit him, fking hit him", jurors were told.

Bettley-Smith, of West Mercia Police, claims she used reasonable force and she had feared for her life.

ALIENS HERE IN A FLASH..25 YEARS!

Boffin hails new ET tech

ENCOUNTER: An alien

■ by JERRY LAWTON

ALIENS will be discovered within the next 25 years, according to a top space boffin.

Dr Sascha Quanz said tech advances mean the ambitious 25-year timeframe he has set himself for finding life beyond our solar system is not "unrealistic".

The astrophysicist said: "There's no guarantee for success. But we're going to learn other things on the way."

He said the new James Webb Space Telescope was already providing extraordinary images of gas giant planets outside our solar system.

But Dr Quanz's team at Switzerland's ETH Zurich institute are working on an instrument for a new scope that will be able to focus on smaller, Earth-like planets.

He added: "The primary goal of the instrument is to take the first picture of a terrestrial planet, potentially similar to Earth, around one of the very nearest stars. But our long-term vision is to do that not only for a few stars but for dozens and to investigate the atmospheres of dozens of terrestrial exoplanets."

He hailed the release a fortnight ago of the first direct image of an exoplanet by the Webb Telescope. The gas giant HIP 65426 b was a "very special system", he said.

Dr Quanz's claims follow former Nasa chief scientist Jim Green's prediction we will have a close encounter within the "next handful of years".

Mr Green said he believes humans are on the brink of a "really astounding discovery".

He added we now know there are "more planets in our galaxy than stars", many of them with "conditions for life".

Robbie: I'm shocking DJ

ROBBIE Williams has binned his dance project after an awkward first DJ stint in Ibiza.

Stoke's most famous son has been working on club tunes and even had dreams to create a venue that recalled his happy times at venues such as the Haçienda in the 1990s.

But the reality of arriving as Robbie Williams to play dance music was trickier than he imagined.

Rob explained: "So I turned up at my fist electronic dance music gig, in Ibiza at a place called 528.

"I thought what was gonna happen when I did this dance project was that I was gonna be an audience member but on stage.

"I just thought I was gonna be the Bez of this project, wander around, vibes, you know.

"What actually happened when I turned up to the first gig was 2,000 people faced the stage and just looked at me, barely any movement and it was so awkward, so awkward."

Feeling under pressure to entertain the expectant crowd, Robbie revealed: "I Googled, 'What do garage MCs say?' whilst I am on stage because I don't know what to do!

"I'm like, 'Inside, this one goes out to the ladies. Wait for the drop.' I didn't know what I was doing so I just repeated the top 10 things several times – 'Inside!'

"I couldn't believe how awkward it is. It was a shock, a shock."

Robbie, who is on course for No1 with new orchestral hits collection XXV, has now ditched the dance dream because he's not willing to start at the bottom.

He explained on Annie Mac's podcast Changes: "We did Ibiza Rocks and I go around to see these big clubs. I'm thinking, 'I am Robbie Williams.' I am shown these big clubs and I am like, 'Yeah, yeah I will do this.' Then they take you through to a back room and they go, 'This is where you will be playing.'

"I am like, 'What? This is a cloakroom.' I get it – it doesn't matter who you are, this is where you start. But if I am going to do this, I need to be recompensed properly. I am not leaving the house for a couple of months to go and do this for it to cost me money."

Hit show Ted Lasso nabbed four awards at America's telly Oscars.

The AppleTV+ series, which is about a British footie team, won gongs including Outstanding Comedy Series.

As well as Jason Sudeikis, it stars plenty of our homegrown talent including Hannah Waddingham, 48, Juno Temple, 33, and Nick Mohammed, 41.

Media dynasty drama Succession also won big with British writer Jesse Armstrong, from Shropshire, getting the award for Outstanding Writing for a Drama Series.

At the bash on Monday night, Armstrong made a jokey dig at the royals. The 51-year-old quipped: "Big week for successions. New king in the UK… this for us."

And Great Yarmouth-born Matthew Macfadyen, 47, won Supporting Actor in a Drama Series for his role in the hit show. The star, who plays Tom Wambsgans, said: "It's really such a pleasure and a privilege to play this bonkers gift of a role in this show."

Birmingham-born John Oliver, 45, won the gong for Variety Talk Series for his HBO show Last Week Tonight.

The chat-show host said: "We know how lucky we are to get to make the exact show that we want, exactly how we want to make it."

Other big winners included Amanda Seyfried, 36, for her role in The Dropout and Jean Smart, 71, for her role in Hacks.

£246k for rare Marvel comic

THE first ever Fantastic Four comic, which made Marvel a household name, has sold for £246,000.

Stan Lee's 1961 creation teamed up superheroes for the first time "in one magnificent magazine".

It launched the "Marvel Age" and preceded the popular Avengers and X-Men. The magazine, which was once worth just a few pence, whipped up a bidding war in the US.

It was sold at Heritage of Dallas, Texas. Barry Sandoval, of Heritage, said: "The high quality of this issue is very rare – only eight have ever been found with a higher certification.

"These comics were made to be read and thrown away, so for one to have survived in such a pristine state is very notable."

Mr Fantastic, The Thing, Invisible Girl and The Human Torch are depicted on the front cover.

Nessie big-frog theory is sunk

A TOP scientist has ruled out the possibility the Loch Ness Monster is a big frog.

Fossil expert Tyler Greenfield said the theory, which leapt to prominence after the re-emergence of a 1934 newspaper article, is simply implausible.

Underwater surveys have shown frogs or toads living 325ft below the surface of the huge Scottish lake – but they are only a few inches long.

Mr Greenfield, 22, collections assistant at the Tate Geological Museum in Casper, Wyoming, said: "Out of the thousands of sightings only one matches that description.

"This sighting was reported by a diver named Duncan Macdonald in a 1934 newspaper article.

"Sometime in the 1880s Macdonald allegedly saw a frog-like creature 'as big as a goat' while salvaging a shipwreck in the loch.

"I suspect this story to be a hoax for several reasons.

"In my opinion Macdonald's story was an attempt to sell more newspapers by taking advantage of the public's growing interest."

But Mr Greenfield added: "There is still a lot of psychological, sociological, and historical research to be done."

Pensioner killed in savage attack by pet marsupial

■ by LEIGH McMANUS

A PET kangaroo fatally injured its owner – then blocked paramedics who were trying to save him.

Police had to shoot the angry marsupial, which they said posed a "threat" to emergency workers.

The 77-year-old man had been keeping the wild animal as a pet before it turned on him.

DANGER: Feisty roo

The man was discovered by a family member, who alerted 999 crews.

A police spokesman said: "At the property there was a kangaroo that was preventing the ambulance crew from accessing the injured man.

Firearm

"The kangaroo was posing an ongoing threat to emergency responders and officers were required to euthanise the kangaroo by firearm.

"It is believed the man had been attacked by the kangaroo earlier in the day."

Reports suggested that the species of roo that killed the man in Albany, Western Australia, was a western grey – the dominant one in the area.

They can grow up to 2.2metres long and weigh up to 70kg.

Attacks by kangaroos on humans are not uncommon. However, the pensioner's death is believed to be the first caused by one of the creatures in more than 85 years.

The last person killed in an attack was 38-year-old William Cruickshank in 1936. He died in hospital in New South Wales months after being mauled as he tried to rescue two dogs from a large kangaroo.

The attack left him with a broken jaw and extensive head injuries.

Have a heart for Queen's family

RACING FAN: Her Maj

HRH horse sense

ONE thing we all knew about Her Majesty was that she loved her sport, in particular horse racing.

She was never happier than spending time with her gee-gees, whether watching them run or riding them. And little wonder when every person (aside from the old man and small great-grandchildren like Louis) treated you as the Queen rather than a fellow human being.

Animals didn't know any difference. She was just someone else to feed, pat and exercise them.

In short, it was good for her mental health.

As is football for many of us. It was a huge mistake to cancel football matches at all levels last weekend. Little kids were deprived of kicking balls about during the pandemic so why stop them again now?

And for us grown-ups going to support our sides, spend time with our mates, sink a few beers and let off steam is good for our mental health.

As my club (West Ham) proved last Thursday, paying tribute to the Queen doesn't have to be black-draped gloom. The National Anthem rang out, her picture shone on the big screens and players wore armbands.

There are many ways of mourning and paying respect.

GRIEF-shaming is now a thing. Mad innit? Why aren't you wearing black? Why are you drinking alcohol? Why are you going out dancing with your mates? Why are you watching some escapist nonsense on Netflix rather than BBC solemn stuff? Jeez, give it a rest.

So fair play to The Crown actress Emma Corrin at the Canadian premiere of movie My Policemen (co-starring Harry Styles.)

In head-to-toe black, with diamond jewellery and smart patent heels, she nailed the "in-mourning" look.

And if I had legs like that, I'd forget to put my skirt on too.

BLIMEY, what a week. A new Prime Minister, a new King and an enormous loss that has literally stopped the UK in its tracks.

Whether you regarded Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II as just another little old lady of 96 who had been in failing health or the strength and stay of this country is neither here nor there today really, is it?

Because if you put aside all the politics, privilege, pontificating and poison, this is about the basic human emotion of grief and loss.

God knows why so many of us have been so upset but we have. I mean, who ever thought crying over a Paddington bear sketch would be a thing? But it's the reality of an emotional, gut-wrenching time.

Because whether royalist or republican, surely every one of us must appreciate what it's like to lose a loved one.

Yes, she was the Queen, but she was also a mum, grandmother, great-grandmother, auntie, great-auntie and mate.

Strip away all the pomp and ceremony and look at the grief etched on Princess Anne's face, right. God knows how that woman sat behind her mum's hearse on its six-hour-plus journey from Balmoral to Edinburgh. Half an hour behind my dad's was truly awful.

And the sight of her curtseying to her mum's coffin was enough to surely make even the haters stop and think.

Of course the royals aren't perfect. Which family is? Their failings and fights have been writ large for decades.

There are those who will never forgive Camilla but again, the way she is supporting King Charles (and God how weird does that even sound?) on a human level is surely what's important right here and now.

These two have clearly had an enduring love from when they were young and that's still as strong today.

Likewise the sight of William, his brother and their wives greeting mourners in Windsor. This paper has been critical of the Californian couple's behaviour but if those two boys can make a go of their relationship, surely it can only be good?

Someone once wrote: "To err is human, to forgive is divine." It will take an awful lot of effort on both sides but those painful first steps down Windsor's aptly named Long Walk could be a start.

My baby sister would literally have to murder someone for me to fall out with her. We're only a small family, just the two of us who grieved a parent taken too soon. So along with anyone with a heart, I really hope Diana's boys can forgive, even if forgetting will be difficult.

The bottom line in all of this is that life is really too short. And no, the irony of using that phrase in connection to a woman who lived to 96 and worked for 70 years is not lost.

Now we're in this weird limbo situation where her passing feels overtaken by the organisation and planning for her funeral next Monday. Every day our TVs and radios are full of what's happening. Folk are willing to queue for up to 30 hours to file past her coffin both in Edinburgh and London. Astonishing.

The people of Scotland have done Her Majesty proud and the fact that she died amongst her beloved misty lochs and glens of that magnificent countryside must be some comfort to her family.

Grieving for a woman most of us never met isn't weird, it's human. For many of us it is bringing to the fore memories of loved ones we have lost.

It's perfectly fine not to feel sad too. What is important is to be kind to those who simply feel different from you. A hard ask in the days of social media hissy fits.

The Queen never really recovered from losing Prince Philip. Her smile was the same but the sadness never left her eyes.

So God speed to your Prince, Your Majesty, together for eternity in peace.
ANDREW THE PROBLEM CHILD

HOW do you deal with a problem like Andrew? You can't ban him from mourning his mum but his continued (and expensive silence) over his mate Epstein and underage girls throws a shadow over his siblings.

The bloke who heckled him in Edinburgh had every right to do so. Wrong place, wrong time but we (thankfully) still have freedom of speech.

And I just don't get why Harry can't wear his military uniform but Andrew can. Both served and both are no longer working royals, so what's the difference? One lives in America, the other will probably never dare visit it again. One has talked about his version of the truth way too much, the other not enough.

At least Andrew will be taking care of the Queen's beloved corgis and dorgis. I just hope they like pizza for dinner...

DUTY, dignity, dedication. Words that so many these days would have to look up in the dictionary.

Her Majesty didn't have to worry about money but having every second of your life mapped out for you is daunting, especially when complaining and explaining aren't an option.

We thought she was our Queen. She thought she was our servant.

No more drunk texting horrors

■ by AARON TINNEY

DRUNKEN texters can rejoice – Apple users can now edit and unsend texts sent over iMessage.

But there are major catches as iPhone users only have 120 seconds to pull back messages and 15 minutes to amend statements they may later regret.

A forum on iPhone use was filled with messages of relief at the option.

One said: "Thank f – at last. Means if your ex is asleep when you drunk text you at least have a couple of minutes to take it all back."

Another remarked: "I've been waiting for this since I got an iPhone."

The tech firm updated its iPhone operating system on Monday with the feature. But recipients will still be able to click a button to see previous versions of an edited note.

And if a user recalls a text, the receiver gets a message saying the contact "unsent a message".

The recipient could also still read the message before the sender deletes it within the two-minute cut-off. One angry user wrote: "Two minutes is f all – you have to be pretty quick off the mark to jump back on that, especially if you were drunk texting."

It only works on messages sent between iPhones – and comes just days after Apple revealed its new iPhone 14 Pro and iPhone 14 Pro Max in California.

Joe: I'm faintly special

YOUTUBER Joe Sugg says it makes him feel "special" when fans faint.

The roof-thatcher turned social media star has had people passing out at book signings and appearances.

Speaking on the White Wine Question Time podcast, Joe said: "I've seen many a fainter in my time – a lot of tears, a lot of fainting, a lot of hysteria.

"It does make you feel a bit special in a way and loved, which is good."

Joe, 31, who has more than 26million followers, found love on Strictly Come Dancing in 2018 with his pro partner Dianne Buswell, 33, who is now his girlfriend.

ILLEGAL: Cannabis

Dope hit by £1m seizure

A CROOK has been caged after running a cannabis factory – in a disused court next to a police station.

Ilidion Brahaj, 20, produced the Class-B drug, which had an estimated street value of £1million.

Chester Crown Court heard how Brahaj, of no fixed address, grew 1,000 plants inside the former Runcorn Magistrates Court in Cheshire – which shut in 2016.

He was sentenced to two years in a Young Offenders' Institution after admitting producing cannabis.

PC Simon Gibson said: "Thanks to information, we were able to seize the drugs."

Screen fave surprise at fan support

■ by JERRY LAWTON

CHRIS Kamara says he is "very grateful" for fans' backing as he battles his speech disorder.

The popular pundit said he had been blitzed with "support and messages" since opening up about his apraxia.

We told yesterday how Kammy, 64, said he felt "a fraud" on screen now.

But fans have rallied to back him after he opened up about his anguish on Steven Bartlett's Diary of a CEO podcast.

Chris said of the response: "It was only recorded last Friday so yesterday really took me by surprise.

"I can't respond to everyone, but many thanks to all for the support and messages, which haven't gone unnoticed – I'm very grateful."

In the hours following the release of the podcast yesterday, searches for the term "apraxia" on Google spiked.

Dragons' Den entrepreneur Steven, 30, said: "I think it's safe to say Kammy's mission to spread the word is succeeding."

Kammy quit Sky Sports' Soccer Saturday this year after his diagnosis.

'Prat' Greg surf lunacy

GREG Rutherford has revealed that before he became a long jumper his hobby was daredevil "car surfing" as a teenager.

The 2012 gold-medal British Olympian would perform the stunt - clinging on to the roof of a moving car - with friends.

Greg, 35, who grew up in Milton Keynes, told The Breakdown podcast: "As a kid I was a complete prat – it was a stupid thing to do."

KAREN FLOORS FEARS

MARVEL star Karen Gillan suffered crippling anxiety until she learned to lie on the floor and "invite it all in".

Gillan, who plays Nebula, said: "It's been easier to ignore my body than to confront the situation.

"I've repressed the feeling instead of taking it seriously and listening to my body. And I'm just now turning that around."

The 34-year-old told Women's Health magazine she now lies on the floor and forces herself to feel all of the fear.

She added: "With anxiety, your instinctive response is to tell yourself to stop feeling it."

The actress says she is now much more comfortable with all her worries.

The full interview can be read in October's Women's Health UK, on sale now.

SNAPPY'S HAPPY FOR TV SARAH

Soap star sexy pics jackpot

EXCLUSIVE by BETHANY WHITTINGHAM

SARAH Jayne Dunn says she is financially better off "than I have ever been" after joining a saucy fans' site.

The Hollyoaks legend was axed from the Channel 4 soap last summer after signing up for the adult subscription site.

The mum-of-one, 40, said it has turned out to be a great move money-wise.

She said: "I was doing photo-shoots anyway so I was like, 'If there's a way of doing these and one making money from it and two moving them away from Instagram then that was the way forward for me.

"That's not the way it turned out, it was the best thing that could've happened to me. So, I'm much more financially secure than I've ever been." And the actress has revealed many telly stars do not earn as much as the public assume.

SAUCY: Dunn

Sarah said: "The way that these shows work is that to be making more money you need to be very, very busy and if you're not very busy then you're not making much money – at all.

"And I wasn't very busy."

Sarah, who regularly posts sexy snaps on the paid-for site, added: "As an actor you don't really make very much money unless you make it big, big time.

"So the beauty of being more financially stable is that I'm not having to go out looking for work for the sake of looking for acting work."

Walking cure for babies

A FIVE-minute walk is the key to getting a crying baby back to sleep, say scientists.

Holding and carrying them works better than a simple cuddle.

Researchers hailed it as a cost-free and effective technique that causes physiological changes – including slowing heart rate.

Dr Kumi Kuroda, of the Riken Center in Tokyo, Japan, said: "Even as a mother of four, I was very surprised to see the result.

"Walking for five minutes promoted sleep – but only for crying infants.

"This effect was absent when babies were already calm beforehand."

Organ donors plunge

ORGAN donations fell by almost a third during the pandemic, according to new research.

Between March 2020 and 2021 there were 4,282 donors compared with 6,038 the previous year.

In hospitals, deaths from heart attacks and strokes fell by 17% and 12% respectively – scenarios often leading to donations.

Dr Dan Harvey, of Nottingham University Hospitals NHS Trust, said Covid "impacted on organ donation in the UK, as in many other countries".

Some 7,000 people were waiting for transplants in the UK last year – the highest number since 2014.

Maccy D drunk car ban

A DRINK-driver was caught after ordering food at a McDonald's at 3am.

The worker who served him told the man to wait for his order in the car park – and then reported him to the police.

Marcus Wilson, 28, was then spotted swapping seats with his passenger by workers and on CCTV.

When the police arrived, he became aggressive towards arresting officers.

Wilson, from Chatham, Kent, pleaded guilty to driving while unfit through drink at Medway Magistrates' Court.

He was fined £250 and banned from driving for 12 months. He was also ordered to pay £85 costs and a £100 victim surcharge.

'GET FIRED' A MUST BEFORE YOU'RE 40

Landmark age is full of surprises

YOUNG AT HEART: Birrell

■ by RICHARD JENKINS

EVERYONE should get fired from a job, fall in love and become debt free by the age of 40.

You should also have started your pension, learned basic DIY skills and bought a house before hitting the landmark age, according to a recent study.

Nigel Birrell, of Lottoland, which ran the poll to mark its partnership with the Prader-Willi Syndrome Association as it celebrates its 40th anniversary this year, said: "Forty is the new 30.

"Once we reach 40, there is so much left of life to achieve the goals and milestones we want to hit.

"So it's nothing to worry about if there's still plenty left on your to-do list. It's interesting to see what people believe should have been achieved by that age though, as what's right for one person may not suit another."

It also emerged 55% of those over 40 were worried when they hit that number.

But 45% admitted they enjoyed the experience overall. A lack of time and money are the two main reasons for not yet hitting their goals before 40.

But another 28% feel they are too tied down by things at home to get out and accomplish everything they wish to achieve.

NACT DEATH RITUALS TO COPE WITH THEIR GRIEF

SORROW: Elephants mourn loss of a member of their close family unit

re comforters

★ WHEN the Queen died, the royal beekeeper made a special visit to her hives to give them the news their mistress had passed away.

The beekeeper visited Buckingham Palace and Clarence House for the ancient tradition, and told them the King was their new boss.

★ Superstition says the bees would stop producing honey, flee the hive or pass away from sorrow if not told.

★ Here, KIM CARR looks at other animal death rituals...

ly emotional, a dog will e at the body of another own kind which has died will paw and lick it as they protect it. Mothers have known to bury their pups.

LIONS

live a solitary life until ng time but the bond be- n a mother and pup is se. A sea lion will cry and n for days if a baby passes through an attack. If orn, she will stay next to body – cuddling it and g out to it as if to encour- t to wake up.

GPIES

birds themselves are of- associated with bad luck he untrue belief they like eal shiny things for their . What is less well- n is they have seen to hold ething akin to rals when a falls off their n. A study showed two approached and gently pecked another magpie who had died then, realising it was no longer breathing, they put grass on top of its body. A group of the birds then stood around, as if holding a vigil.

MONKEYS

When a robot langur monkey in BBC's Spy in the Wild appeared to cark it, the real monkeys hugged as if to console each other. They also touched the robot as if paying respects with a final send-off.

ELEPHANTS

Clearly moved, elephants have been seen to cover up their deceased with leaves, mud and tree branches and stand silently by their bodies, sometimes for 48 hours. They also show respect to their dead by scattering the bones and can return to their grave over a period of many weeks.

GIRAFFES

Their big tongues are usually reserved for helping with eating and drinking but a bereaved giraffe was seen licking and nudging her dead calf at the Luangwa National Park in Zambia as she came to terms with the loss. The process lasted for two hours while she was left alone with her young.

DOLPHINS

Finding it hard to let go of their dead, dolphins will spend as much time with them as possible. They use their heads and backs to hold up deceased calves for around 30 minutes before letting them drift into the ocean.

CHIMPANZEES

Letting go of a deceased chimp is not an easy process for a mother, who will carry them with her for days or even until the body starts to decay. It is such a firm practice to get over the shock and upset, that zoos allow it to carry on as it would happen in the wild.

HORSES

When one of the herd passes away, horses will gather around smelling and pawing the body. Their heads stay low so their eyes can keep a firm focus on the dead. Others find death so difficult to cope with, they will run around whinnying in pain.

GEESE

They usually have one mate for life, so death hits geese pretty hard when their partner passes away. They will preen its feathers and stay alongside for days. Losing weight and avoiding others in the flock is also common – as is finding love with another widow/ widower.

SAD TIMES: Seals, dogs and magpies have grieving rituals and find dealing with the loss of a loved one very hard

Commendably, Self-Esteem pop musician Rebecca Taylor stepped in to save food and drink from the Mercury Prize ceremony, diverting it to homeless organisations and people outside the building after the event was postponed due to the Queen's death. But it is concerning she needed to step in. Surely organisers should have automatically stopped the food being binned anyway, and at least offered it to attendees and venue staff unprompted, if not to the poor. F Harvey, Bristol

People of Scotland did Queen proud

Can't say much about the Queen's journey from Balmoral to Edinburgh except she would be looking down and enjoying every single mile. Yes, she would have loved it. RIP Ma'am. BUDDY FAN

Thank you to the people of Scotland. You all really did her proud. turbo for as long as i can remember her majesty the queen was there. A beacon of calm good sensed stoicism in a turbulent ever changing totally irritating confusing world. A light has gone out on an era many of us called home and uncertainty fills the gap that her surety once filled, but if there is one thing the queen and prince philip showed us is a belief and hope in the future and in the hearts and soul of humanity. We must show the same stoic faith in better times ahead. Thank you and god bless your majesty. John challenger

People say that Queen Elizabeth should be given an epithet. I think she should be given the epithet of Elizabeth The Nice. She was a nice person. And what better thing is it to be in the world for a man or woman than to be a nice person? Joey Vimsante, North Wales

The Queen was patron of over 600 charities, and I salute her. But declaring a Bank Holiday for her funeral, a Monday date, isn't charitable, but damaging to our already fragile economy. Schools will lose out on learning, for example. What's wrong with a funeral on Saturday or Sunday? Luke

DREAM: Baker Will

Will be back..

BAKE Off's Will hopes being on the show makes him an online sensation.

He only lasted one week, but thinks he could be a hit on YouTube.

Will said: "I'm thinking of combining my love for cooking and baking and passions for the environment into a YouTube channel.

"I have a lot of thoughts about cooking more sustainably, reducing waste and helping people as food increases in price.

"There are loads of skills we can all learn to make cooking more fun, better for us, better for the world and continue to eat well."

STUNTS: The actor

Daring Mikey

MIKEY North loves it when he gets to do stunts on Corrie.

The star, who plays scheming Gary Windass, filmed some of his best ones yet for this month's dramatic episodes.

He said: "I'm lucky that they let me do a lot of my own stunts here.

"Obviously they feel I'm able to get hit by a car or jump off a roof. I don't know whether that's a good thing or a bad thing!

"But it's one of my favourite parts of the job.

"I think I'm more of a frustrated stunt man than an actor."

SAUCY VOICE MARIA'S X-RATED MOVIE OFFER

CASH LURE: Narrator McErlane

SAUCY Eurotrash narrator Maria McErlane was offered a big-money deal to work in porn.

Adult entertainment execs wanted her to do a voiceover for hardcore movies.

She said: "They asked me to voice some adult films. I was amused.

"Everything has its place. But I didn't want to do it, so I said no.

"That's really not my thing. And you don't want to pigeon hole yourself because this industry does that anyway. I had to veer away from that and concentrate on more comedic shows."

HOSTS: Antoine and Jean Paul

Maria was advised to keep quiet about her work on Eurotrash – originally presented by Antoine de Caunes and Jean Paul Gaultier – to avoid getting more X-rated offers.

She added: "My agent said, 'Let's leave it off your CV.' She didn't want me to be known for doing sexy things."

Maria has starred in a string of big shows including Killing Eve, Holby City and Fat Friends. Fans can get Eurotrash on DVD and digital from September 26.

Andy Lea's telly movies

INDIANA JONES AND THE TEMPLE OF DOOM ★★★★★ (1984) Film4, 9pm It may be the weakest of the original Indiana Jones trilogy, but this second film (which is technically a prequel) is still a lot of fun and welcomingly distracting. This time around, the archaeologist is in India to track down magical sacred stones. That means dealing with an evil cult, as well as a child sidekick Ke Huy Quan and annoying nightclub singer Kate Capshaw.

SICARIO ★★★★★ (2015) Film4, 11.20pm A stunning opening sequence sets the tone for this intense thriller in which Emily Blunt's naive FBI agent is recruited to join Josh Brolin and Benicio Del Toro's shadowy task force on a secret mission to take down a Mexican drug cartel. Also stars Jon Bernthal and Victor Garber.

What a relief! It looks as though everything's back to normal again in DOC MARTIN (9pm, ITV).

The Doc has admitted he made a mistake when he quit as Portween's GP. And the pompous powers-that-be have grudgingly accepted his apology, recognising that good medics like him are a bit thin on the ground.

So, yes, the surgery is open again, and it's business as usual.

Well, almost.

New receptionist Max Foreman (Angus Imrie) seems a little out of his depth, to be honest. Also, the Doc's not best pleased that little James has befriended a stray dog. The Doc's not keen on dogs, remember.

And on top of all this, Louisa has been using the surgery for her own work as a child psychologist, so it's getting a bit cramped in there. Might they do better to move to a bigger house? Funny you should say that, because there's a place up the road that Louisa has had her eye on since she was a kid, and which has just come on on the market.

Trouble is, something strange seems to be going on there. Why does the owner keep suffering strange accidents? PC Penhale thinks there may be supernatural forces at work.

Meanwhile, there's further trouble at the optimistically named Paradise Caravan Park, the focus of Bert's latest ludicrous business venture.

Elsewhere tonight, in NADIYA'S EVERYDAY BAKING (8.30pm, BBC Two), the ex-Bake Off champ concocts an everything-but-the-kitchen-sink treat, a cinnamon-and-peanut-encrusted chocolate cookie with a runny caramel surprise in the centre.

JUST JANE

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY ... AND EVERY DAY

My hubby croons about dead wife

I'M LEFT FEELING AN IDIOT

MY husband is married to me now, so why is he still writing mushy songs about his late wife?

As well as running his own carpentry business he plays guitar and sings in local bars and clubs for pleasure. He's good. People like and respect him.

I admit he writes some intelligent lyrics and lovely melodies but they're all about HER.

His songs talk of her beauty, bravery and suffering.

Tears

He remembers their young life together and how they grew intertwined in love and companionship.

But what about me?

I feel like a total idiot standing there with a shandy in hand as folk sing along or wipe tears from their eyes.

I never met the woman. She died three years before we were introduced, but I feel I know more about her personality and traits than those of my own mother and grandmother.

Recently my sister got married and I had to beg my husband not to perform at her reception.

He says he's happy with me and our sex life is okay. We have nice days out together to the beach and local countryside and cherish our friends and family. He credits me with bringing happiness and light back into his life, so why can't he move on?

Why can't he write songs about how fresh and amazing I am? More than once I've stood on our local sands and he's told me I look beautiful. Might there be a song in that instead?

JANE SAYS: I get the impression your man is mining the past for emotional material.

Losing his wife was such a shock and so confusing that it's only through writing songs that he can make sense of what happened and express himself. He's by no means alone in looking back for inspiration.

For generations song writers have processed grief and hurt through music

It's highly likely that singing his tunes increases his self-esteem and enables him to cope.

I don't think this is a case of her versus you – it's more about him finding a voice in song rather than out loud on an exposed beach in the middle of the day.

If you believe he's hiding behind his music and disrespecting you, then you have to have the conversation before you start to become bitter and resentful.

Would he be interested in writing about the present and leaving the past behind? Does he even realise how it affects you?

What about a few cheerful covers in the mix?

It sounds likely that he's still not come to terms with his late wife's death, so would he agree to check out Cruse Bereavement Care (cruse.org.uk)?

For your own mental stability, would you be better off not joining him in clubs and pubs while he performs?

Picture posed by models

BODY BLOW: He can't get dead wife out of his mind but his new partner has had enough

I'll give her gift of sex

A WOMAN I work with is obsessed with me.

Her cheeks blaze and she stutters when we talk. Once she got very drunk and offered me sex "any way you like".

She's now announced she's leaving our firm to care for her sick mother.

Should I take her to bed, just to make her happy?

I suspect she's now got a miserable life ahead of her.

I could book a hotel and send her off with a bang...

I think she'd prefer that to me putting £5 in a leaving card.

My only worry is that once might not be enough and she'd end up wanting more than I'm willing to give?

JANE SAYS: Just stop and listen to yourself. When did your ego get so massive?

Organising a soulless bunk-up with this besotted colleague would be wrong on so many levels. For a start she's vulnerable and susceptible.

Her home life is challenging and she's just about to embark on a selfless act of sacrifice.

If you're able to offer her a loving and stable relationship, then great. But anything less is a kick in the teeth. Start showing her the respect she deserves.

He's not worthy of you

DISCOVERING that I'd contracted a sexually transmitted disease at the age of 45 was devastating.

I've only ever had sex with my partner.

I confronted him and he confessed to sleeping around. He sobbed he was sorry and would never let me down again.

I'm still receiving treatment and my confidence is shot to pieces, only he's become defensive and bolshie.

The other day a friend hinted that he still has a secret lover tucked away.

She's seen them together in wine bars, so that might explain where our money goes too.

JANE SAYS: Start putting yourself first.

Turn to trusted friends and relatives, and take care of your mental and physical health. You have absolutely nothing to feel ashamed about because you know that you've done nothing wrong.

What further hurt and humiliation can this man heap on you before you accept he's just not worth bothering with?

There's no reason for you to ever share the same home or his bed again.

He is not the honourable person you thought, he's unworthy of you.

Ex's marrying the class fool

MY ex-girlfriend is marrying an idiot. He used to be in my class at school and has never grown up.

Now, a few months after breaking up with me, she's planning an OTT wedding to him. I'm shocked and disgusted. I can't get over this as I know that her family still love me and are devastated that I'm no longer around.

JANE SAYS: Your ex can do anything she likes. You have to accept that you and she are over and that she's chosen a different path.

How do you know that her new lover is still a fool? He could have grown up and matured for all you know. Don't allow yourself to become a problem. Walk away with your dignity intact.

CONTINUES TOMORROW

RUSSELL GRANT

DON'T MISS RUSSELL EVERY DAY IN THE DAILY STAR

ARIES
March 21 to April 20

A SUDDEN boost in energy and inspiration should make for a productive start to the day. You won't need to be told how to make the most of your time. Your aim is to clear away unfinished business before you start pushing ahead with other concerns.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3801*

TAURUS
April 21 to May 21

YOU shouldn't feel you have to do everything on your own. Join forces with others who seem to have nothing on and enlist their help. A group effort would be more advisable than trying to battle away at something on your own.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3802*

GEMINI
May 22 to June 21

EXCITEMENT is in the air. Someone in the family has something special to celebrate. Domestic chores can wait. You're tempted to spill the beans and let a close friend in on a secret. You will need to trust it won't go any further.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3803*

CANCER
June 22 to July 23

PEOPLE are preventing you from getting on with private plans. Sometimes you can be too kind and polite for your own good. You can keep the peace just as easily without having to give in to everyone else. Others will respect you for saying, "No".

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3804*

LEO
July 24 to August 23

THE spotlight is on your finances. Money talks will take you round in circles. Agreements already made will be brought up again. As frustrated as you feel about this, someone could come up with a better idea. Hear them out before you start complaining.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3805*

VIRGO
August 24 to September 23

THERE is no way to turn a blind eye to a legal or financial matter. Whether it is an email, letter or phone-call that brings your attention to an issue that needs to be resolved, you will have to deal with this today.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3806*

LIBRA
September 24 to October 23

YOUR sense of humour is at an all-time high. Tense situations can be eased by your ability to see the funny side. You find more scope to utilise your creative instincts by flinging yourself wholeheartedly into a group or community project.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3807*

SCORPIO
October 24 to November 22

THERE is a reason why you are keeping changes in your life a secret. You don't want someone from your past to know your business. A change in your financial situation will be linked to a job move or your partner accepting a new career role.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3808*

SAGITTARIUS
November 23 to December 21

WHATEVER you take on you will be giving it 100% and you deserve to succeed. You're determined to get it perfect. If you are learning something new, give yourself permission to make a few mistakes. Treat errors as learning opportunities.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3809*

CAPRICORN
December 22 to January 20

THE tension between you and a partner has not been conducive to romance. You are both now prepared to attack matters that remain unresolved between you and by the end of the day you will have agreed to meet each other half way.

Call one of my dedicated astrologers on 0905 789 3810*

AQUARIUS
January 21 to February 19

IT won't take long before you realise how well your use of tact and charm is working. Your instincts are often reliable. You sense what it is that other people are hoping for and it won't be any bother to you to find ways to please them.

POWER NUTRITION PROTEIN PHILOSOPHY DETERMINATION DIET Star FIT HEALTH STRENGTH TRAINING EXERCISE WORKOUT FITNESS MUSCLE

★ STARS including TV's Jennifer Ellison and Towie's Pete Wicks are being put through their paces on Celebrity SAS: Who Dares Wins.

The Channel 4 series sees ex-Special Forces presenters put the celebs, right, through physical and psychological challenges to recreate the SAS selection process.

★ But just how do you get a fighting fit body? Here JAMES MOORE has put together some fitness tips from the show's stars and other famous military figures…

How to get an SAS physique

TOUGH IT OUT: Denny Denholm blasts out press-ups. Above, sit-ups. Below, plank

BEAR GRYLLS

Train outside

The ex-SAS member and TV star reckons exercising outdoors is the key to success thanks to the fresh air, vitamin D and "that little bit of grit". He adds: "Gym classes and yoga just don't offer the same sort of intensity of effort you get if you push yourself outdoors."

ANT MIDDLETON

Burpees

Former Special Boat Service sniper and ex-chief instructor on SAS: Who Dares Wins recommends trying to do a bit of exercise every day and focusing on mental health too. The burpee is among his favourite exercises. He says: "The burpee has to be one of my all-time favourite exercises. It's a great all-rounder and covers a variety of training purposes."

RUDY REYES

Skipping

The show's chief instructor is a former US marine and martial arts instructor. He recommends doing exercises such as pull-ups to get ripped – but he has also been known to jump rope for 30 minutes a day to warm-up before boxing workouts. Skipping is a tough workout that burns 200 calories in just 10 minutes.

GAL GADOT

Planks

The super-fit Wonder Woman star served in the Israeli armed forces for two years and works out four times a week, doing everything from pilates to interval training. But the 37-year-old's favourite exercise to do at home is the plank. She says: "I love doing planks. Planks are my go-to."

MARK BILLINGHAM

Be active

The former SAS soldier, celeb bodyguard and TV trainer reckons even walking 15 times across the kitchen is better than doing nothing. He adds: "I try to encourage everyone to do something. Because it doesn't matter what size or shape you are, you can do something."

SAS: Who Dares Wins stars Jason Fox and Ollie Ollerton have launched their own workout programme, Battle Ready 360: The Mission Series, with ex-Royal Marine Commando and elite personal trainer Denny Denholm. Here are three exercises to try…

Static Lunge

Start with your feet shoulder width apart and slowly lunge forward with one leg, as if you are stepping over a small stream. Make sure your head is behind your knee and your knee is behind the toe of your front foot.

At the bottom of the static lunge, exhale and slowly push the heel of the front foot into the ground, raise your toes upward, then return to the top of the movement. Exercise on each leg for 20 seconds and change leg. Repeat for three sets on each leg.

Muscle groups used: Quadriceps, glutes, hamstrings, calves and lower back and core stability.

Boxer's Push Up

Begin in the plank position on your toes and hands on the ground. Rather than bend the arms like the traditional push up, you squeeze the scapula or shoulder blades together.

At the top, contract the scapula and then push them apart. This movement is smooth, slow and precise, with straight arms and a straight body. Keep looking forward, keep your bum in line with your shoulders and focus on using only your shoulder blades with steady movements. Pulse for 30 seconds and then on to the next move.

Muscle groups used: Shoulders, deltoids, scapula, abdominals, legs, back and core stability.

Mountain Climber

This exercise begins in the plank position. Bring the knee to the outside of the elbow while turning the head to look directly at the knee meeting the elbow. Then, return to the starting plank position. Alternate left and right legs for 30 seconds.

Muscle groups used: Core stability, shoulders, chest, hip flexors, cardio-vascular system.

Battle Ready 360: The Mission Series is available exclusively on leading fitness and wellbeing community app TRUCONNECT. See truconnect.fit

HELPFUL: Weeping

What's GOOD for you..

TEAR-JERKER: Millions are grieving the Queen's death, but shedding a tear can be good for you. Researchers have found that crying releases emotional and physical pain, helps lower stress and can even aids sleep.

MEATLESS MARVELS: More people are opting for a plant-based diet. Now the popular on-the-go food brand has just launched Meatless Maverick Chick'un Fillet complete with vegan mayonnaise in a seeded roll at Tesco stores.

SORE POINT: Eczema

What's BAD for you..

SKIN TROUBLE: More than four out of 10 Brits are suffering from the skin condition eczema according to a new survey by Typharm's Skin Life Sciences Foundation. And two thirds of those suffering symptoms blame stress and anxiety.

TOOTH HURTS: Poor oral hygiene has been linked to cancer. Boffins at Queen's University Belfast found people suffering conditions such as mouth ulcers and bleeding gums were 75% more likely to develop the most common form of liver cancer.

KEY TO THE CARDS: our racecards are designed to give you a better, easier to understand guide to the runners. Brackets after the racecard number indicate the draw in Flat races. In the form figures, an 'L' indicates the horse finished in last place and a # indicates Bumper form. Figures in brackets after each horse's name indicate the number of days since the horse last ran. (C) indicates a course winner, (D) indicates a winner over the same distance as today's race. (B) or (V) indicates that the horse wears blinkers or a visor. (T) indicates that the horse wears a tongue strap. * indicates if wearing blinkers or visor for first time. (P) indicates that the horse is wearing a Cheek Piece. (BF) stands for beaten favourite. (F) is winner on firm going, (G) on good going, (S) on soft going and (A) on the all weather. The figures in the last column after the jockey's name is an exclusive Clockform rating giving a guide to the horse's chance. The highest figure denotes the top rated, which is also pinpointed by a ★.

OZ ACE CHRIS AT QUEEN FUNERAL

by CHRIS GOULDING

AUSTRALIAN Chris Waller, who trained for the Queen, will attend Her Majesty's funeral at Westminster Abbey on Monday.

Waller, successful at Royal Ascot this year with Nature Strip in the King's Stand Stakes, trained Chalk Stream for the Queen in Australia.

"She was such an amazing lady," said Waller, also famed for training Winx, winner of 33 consecutive races. "She just loves her animals and loves her racehorses and she was very caring and so curious about what is going on with the horse.

"It's been a pleasure to be a small, small part of her later racing years but it's not a matter of ringing up in the morning and saying, 'Hi Chris how are you going'.

"She would ask about the horse and how we train horses in Australia.

"Questions around the droughts and the fires and the floods. She was over everything."

Other trainers who trained for the Queen who may get invited include Sir Michael Stoute, William Haggas, Andrew Balding, John Gosden, Clive Cox, Nicky Henderson, Charlie Longsdon, Michael Bell, Harry and Roger Charlton, and jockeys Frankie Dettori, Ryan Moore, along with Willie Carson. There will be no racing on Monday.

RAISING THE BAA: Baaeed will have one more race

BAAEED DECISION STILL TO BE MADE

by CHRIS GOULDING

CONNECTIONS of superstar colt Baaeed are keeping the racing world guessing as to where his swansong will be.

There are two options for the William Haggas-trained four-year-old before he retires to stud – the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe on October 2 or the Qipco Champion Stakes 13 days later.

Last night Angus Gold, racing manager for the Shadwell operation that owns the colt, said there had still been no decision.

He said: "William will speak to Sheikha Hissa (owner) at some stage and then we will find out. But I don't think there is a date particularly."

Baaeed is unbeaten in his 10 races and his brilliance has propelled him to achieve the status as "best in the world." He is generally 4-6 for the Arc and 1-3 for the Champion Stakes.

This Sunday the colt will canter on the Warren Hill gallops at 8am on day two of the Henry Cecil Open Weekend at Newmarket.

STAR SHORTS

On Marc

MOTORSPORT

SIX-TIME world champion Marc Marquez will make his comeback at this weekend's Aragon MotoGP.

The 29-year-old Spaniard is back after three-and-a-half months out following surgery on his right arm, his Honda team confirmed.

Wor path

RUGBY UNION

WORCESTER owners Colin Golding and Jason Whittingham have confirmed they have agreed to sell the debt-ridden club.

If the deal goes through it would save the club from extinction and administration.

RUGBY LEAGUE

OTHER SIDE OF FENCE: Lussick faces old club Salford in Saturday's semi-final

I'M REDDY

Joey fired up to shred Devils

JOEY Lussick knows just what it's like to be part of Salford's motley crew but the St Helens star won't be fooled by them now.

The Aussie hooker hopes to end the Red Devils' Super League dream in Saturday's semi-final.

Unfashionable Salford caused a stir when reaching the 2019 Grand Final where they were eventually unpicked by a Saints side on the start of their three-peat glory.

Lussick was on the bench for the underdogs then but is now part of the champions' squad after joining from Parramatta this term.

He said: "After that Grand Final defeat, the boys went straight down back into the tunnel. But I actually

by DAVE CRAVEN

stayed back on the field and I watched the Saints boys for a couple of minutes, lifting that trophy, saying that I wish it was me.

"I'm very fortunate to be here at a great club now.

"The boys are really excited. It's a real funny one, coming up against Salford.

"They've been phenomenal at times, just like Wigan and Leeds, and all four teams in these semis are going to be eyeing that Grand Final spot."

Salford finished second bottom last term but soared into the play-offs in sixth with their enterprising play and blasted Huddersfield out last weekend.

Unlike some, Lussick certainly isn't "surprised" by their revival while Saints have problems with England prop Alex Walmsley yesterday ruled out of the rest of the season and the World Cup with a foot injury.

Lussick, 26, said: "Salford have deserved their place in the finals, they've got some great strike players. Any team is capable on their day of beating any other.

"It doesn't matter how you've gone over the course of the year, the real end of the story is that you're here now, one game off Old Trafford.

"Injuries are a part of our game. You can sit and sulk and say you wish you had certain players, but we're focusing on the players who are."

RHYSE MARTIN has lost his appeal – against his appeal.

The Leeds star was last night unsuccessful in his bid to overturn last week's ruling that his appeal against a one-match ban for a careless tackle was 'frivolous'. He will miss Friday's semi-final at Wigan, having already sat out the eliminator against Catalans.

BOXING'S BATTLE OF BRITAIN

GOBBY DAZZLER

Now you're talking as celebrity big bluffer Fury sets up an epic

■ by CHRIS McKENNA

TYSON FURY has been the master puppeteer for some time now.

The Gypsy King has consistently had the boxing world on strings with his announcements, retirements, call outs and, even by his own admission, obvious mistruths.

But last Monday, when he posted a video on his social media standing in front of a door at his Morecambe home draped in three WBC belts offering Anthony Joshua a shot at the heavyweight title, few believed him.

Most refused to dance to his tune yet again.

This, after all, was the man who, since he knocked out Dillian Whyte in April, has made a series of claims that have veered from the ridiculous to the insane.

He called out UFC star Francis Ngannou in the ring at Wembley for a crossover contest, then retired in the post-fight press conference an hour later.

The next thing to feel his force was a taxi while on holiday before he travelled to Iceland to call out strongman Hafthor 'Thor' Bjornsson for some sort of circus fight.

Then he was unretired, appointed friend and fellow fighter Isaac Lowe as trainer, before offering Derek Chisora £2m for a December showdown.

Then he retired again, even having a party to mark the occasion with cakes, balloons and signs.

Keeping up? He then called off the retirement before the sparklers had even gone out at the party to call out WBA, IBF and WBO heavyweight champion Oleksandr Usyk when he beat Joshua.

There was a scrap with a wrestler at a WWE event and then came calling out Joshua when he ran out of patience with Usyk, who is out of action until the new year.

You can forgive the boxing world for not taking him seriously. But things changed quite quickly last week.

Joshua responded, asking for a serious offer to be made to his management.

Fury came back with a reasonable purse split of 60/40 in his favour which, after they agreed 50/50 14 months ago, was very fair considering Joshua has lost his three belts in two defeats by Usyk since.

Joshua's promoter Eddie Hearn confirmed the offer but the date was an issue along with the split for the rematch. Old Trafford had been earmarked for November 12 but Joshua wouldn't be ready.

The Matchroom chief proposed December 17 for Cardiff but they were then given an ultimatum of November 26 at Wembley or December 3 in the Welsh capital.

A deadline came and passed amid the death of the Queen.

But on Friday, Joshua's team sent word they would agree to all the demands and December 3 under the roof at the Principality Stadium.

There are still issues to resolve. One of them is TV rights.

This bout will be on BT Sport Box Office if it happens but will DAZN get a share of the spoils?

There are fewer stumbling blocks and the all-British battle could become a reality.

There are people still believing this is one big game of bluff but neither side can afford to blink now.

GLOVES ARE OFF: Fury's video call-out and (below) the fight agreed yesterday

Joshua-Fury update:

258 and @MatchroomBoxing can confirm, on behalf of @anthonyjoshua, that we accepted all terms presented to us by Fury's team for a fight Dec 3rd last Friday.

Due to the Queen's passing, it was agreed to halt all communication.

We are awaiting a response.

AJ: Bring it on

From Back Page

yesterday saying they had agreed to all Fury's demands.

But they revealed there had been silence over the weekend out of respect for Queen Elizabeth II following her death.

They said in a statement: "258 and Matchroom Boxing can confirm, on behalf of Anthony Joshua, that we accepted all terms presented to us by Fury's team for a fight Dec 3rd.

"Due to the Queen's passing, it was agreed to halt all communication. We are awaiting a response."

Frank Warren's Twitter account quickly replied with: "Contract will be with you very soon."

The fact Joshua's side have agreed to all terms is a significant step in negotiations.

Fury offered Joshua a 60/40 split for a November 12 date at Old Trafford last week. That included a rematch clause at 50/50 if Joshua won.

Joshua's promoter Eddie Hearn insisted his man wouldn't be ready for November 12 after he lost to Oleksandr Usyk last month.

So they requested a December 17 date in Cardiff but that was dismissed by Fury's side. They want their man to fight earlier because they want a March showdown with Usyk.

WE'RE NOT ON ONE-WAY ROOT

■ by DEAN WILSON

JOE ROOT reckons England can take their new style of Test cricket to Pakistan and win because they are not just "one-trick ponies".

Root has been swept along with the freewheeling approach of Ben Stokes and Brendon McCullum, admitting he has never had more fun as a professional cricketer.

And when Jonny Bairstow and Stokes were busy setting Trent Bridge alight with their exhilarating batting, Root had to put down the crossword as he couldn't take his eyes off it.

England have scored their runs at 4.44 per over across their seven Tests making it their fastest scoring summer of all time – beating 2005's thrillseekers.

But in among the high octane, reverse-sweeping boundary collectors, there was another side to the team displayed at Old Trafford when Stokes and Ben Foakes scored calm, skilful and effective hundreds.

And that is what gives Root the confidence to suggest the winter could be just as successful.

"It has been absolute class, so much fun and it's nice to know what we're capable of," said Root.

"We're definitely not the finished article but to see the strides we've made in such a short space of time has been really a breath of fresh air.

"We'll certainly try to do the same in Pakistan. Give it a go.

"At Old Trafford, you saw a different side to this team, a side that can absorb pressure, can play in a slightly different fashion.

"We're not just a one-trick pony."

FUN RUNS: Root loves England's new approach

SERIOUSLY football CHAMPIONSHIP

HE'S HYAM MIGHTY

BLACKBURN 2 WATFORD 0

■ by NEIL GOULDING

RYAN HEDGES and Dominic Hyam bagged their first Blackburn goals to sink Watford.

Hedges (inset), who joined Rovers in January, opened the scoring in the first half before new signing Hyam sealed a fine win late on.

The hosts burst out of the blocks keeping Hornets stopper Daniel Bachmann busy. Seven minutes before half-time Hedges poked Tyrhys Dolan's cross in to break the deadlock.

Watford saw Christian Kabasele's header ruled out for offside in the 57th minute.

Rovers sealed the win eight minutes from tie as Hyam turned the ball in at the back post from a corner.

HUDD'FIELD 1 WIGAN 2

CALLUM LANG struck an 82nd-minute winner as Wigan heaped more misery on struggling Huddersfield.

The Latics forward won a first-half penalty which Will Keane converted.

Danny Schofield's lowly outfit gradually woke up and captain Tom Lees fired home a 76th-minute equaliser.

But the visitors were not done and Lang struck from close range.

SAME OLD STOREY

PRESTON 1 BURNLEY 1

■ by RICHARD TANNER

BURNLEY were again left frustrated as honours ended even in the Lancashire derby.

Vincent Kompany had seen his side drop too many points already this season.

And Preston's home fans had seen only one goal in four previous home matches.

But they were treated to two inside the first 15 minutes, including a long-awaited first at home for their team in a fiercely competitive derby at Deepdale.

Taylor Harwood-Bellis (inset) had headed Burnley in front from Josh Brownhill's corner.

But Jordan Storey nudged the ball over the line in a goalmouth scramble.

■ BOMBER HARRIS: Cardiff's Mark Harris blasts the ball home to pile pain on Boro boss Wilder (inset)

WILDER RIDE

Bluebirds fell Chris in first-half blitz

MIDDLESBROUGH 2 CARDIFF 3

■ by SIMON BIRD

CHRIS WILDER is facing growing frustration after a nightmare first half handed Cardiff victory.

Steve Morison masterminded a brilliant Cardiff opening with goals from Callum O'Dowda, Mark Harris and Perry Ng clinching their first away win.

Boro boss Wilder took his anger out on his team at half-time and even barged Morison in his own technical area and was yellow carded as his side started fighting back.

After the break Morison's side changed their attacking style, tried to protect their lead with a back six, and almost threw it away as Boro scored twice in a minute through Duncan Watmore and Rodrigo Muniz.

Boro turned in a first-half shocker, outplayed by aggressive and front-footed Cardiff who were excellent.

After a minute's silence for the Queen before kick-off, Boro's defenders looked like they were still on parade. They failed to prevent O'Dowda from sliding a shot between the legs of Liam Roberts after four minutes.

Cardiff, without a win in five, were in command after 20 minutes after Jonny Howson dithered and was robbed. Callum Robinson fed Harris, who hit a rocket into the top-right corner from 25 yards.

The Bluebirds looked world beaters and the home crowd were tetchy. Simpson should have made it three with another free header at the back post from a corner – but Ng did.

He chopped inside Dael Fry and stroked home easily past Roberts. Cardiff got the jitters after the break and sat too deep.

Watmore slotted home their first to give a glimmer of hope after 75 minutes, finishing a pass from Isaiah Jones.

A minute later Muniz powered home a header from sub Anfernee Dijksteel's cross. But the damage had been done.

Reda all about it

SWANSEA 0 SHEFFIELD UTD 1

■ by ROB COLE

SHEFFIELD UNITED subs Reda Khadra and Rhian Brewster combined to snatch a dramatic win for the Championship leaders to extend the gap at the top.

Brewster set up Khadra (right) and the German slotted home to extend his club's lead at the top of the table to four points.

It was Khadra's first goal for the Blades, but the fifth time this season Swansea have conceded in the 90th or later minute of a game.

It was a harsh outcome for the Swans who created more chances and would have won themselves if Joel Piroe had taken one of several that slipped his grasp, after the Blades were blunted in the first half.

BAKER'S SO TASTY

HULL 0 STOKE 3

■ by JASON MELLOR

TWO-GOAL Lewis Baker stole the show to help Alex Neil grab his first win as Stoke boss.

Baker (inset) scored in each half and laid on the other for Ben Wilmot.

It was a third straight defeat for Shota Arveladze's side.

Baker opened the scoring with a 25th-minute long-range free-kick.

Wilmot headed in to make it 2-0 at the break and Baker sealed victory by curling home from inside the area on 65 minutes.

HIGHLY RATED: Neil

Dan has name up in Lights

■ by SIMON BIRD

TONY MOWBRAY has tipped England Under-20s star Dan Neil for the top – after nearly signing him for Blackburn.

The new Sunderland boss is delighted he has the talented midfielder in his ranks at the Stadium of Light, calling him an "artist and a soldier".

Mowbray tracked him while Blackburn boss and Rovers would have signed him if Sunderland had not been promoted to the Championship.

He said: "Dan's career is on an upward trajectory, he's a very talented boy.

"I sit here now, and as Rovers manager last year he was very much on our radar.

"If Sunderland weren't going to get promoted, we would have been trying to take him out of League One.

"If you talk about artists and soldiers, the soldiers should be winning the ball back and fighting and scrapping, and then the artists are the ones who pick the right pass and know when to dribble and shoot.

"Dan genuinely falls into both categories."

Sunderland visit Reading tonight.

Brucie's must-win

■ by BRENDAN McLOUGHLIN

STEVE BRUCE has warned draw specialists West Brom must develop a "winning mindset" to kick-start their season.

Albion have drawn six of their eight Championship games heading into tonight's derby at home to Birmingham.

Boss Bruce said: "In terms of performances I couldn't be more pleased.

"We haven't won enough though. We need to get into a winning mindset. We need to stop giving away silly goals.

"If we can get back-to-back victories before the international break, that would be great for us. We know how crucial those back-to-back victories can be in this league."

■WEST BROM have signed former Burnley defender Erik Pieters on a one-year contract.

IT'S A KIND OF TRAGIC

Ilkay targets conquest of Europe after sad endings

■ by JEREMY CROSS

ILKAY GUNDOGAN admits some of Manchester City's recent failings in Europe have been "tragic".

Pep Guardiola's men have flirted with winning the Champions League in his six full seasons since he arrived at the Etihad, only to come up short.

City crashed out of the quarter-finals to Tottenham on away goals in 2019, lost the final to Chelsea in 2021 and were dumped out of the semis last season, 6-5 on aggregate by Real Madrid, despite holding a two-goal advantage heading into the final minutes of the game in the Bernabeu.

Conquering Europe remains the club's holy grail and the only trophy Guardiola hasn't won since taking charge in 2016.

City's quest to end their hoodoo will continue tonight when they host Borussia Dortmund in the group stages.

Gundogan (below) is hoping no more 'tragedies' lie ahead, but admits there is a fine line between success and failure in club football's greatest contest.

The Germany international said: "I think the most important thing we've learned is the margin of mistakes and the little details.

"The quarters and semis, and the final obviously, the margins are so tight that no mistakes are really allowed.

"In the last few years, the way we got knocked out, maybe it was a bit tragic the way it happened, but I don't think we should regret it.

"It's always an experience. It was incredible to play the final, even if we lost it. We always try to learn from it.

"All we can do is try to reach the maximum and see what's going to happen."

The difference between this season and previous ones is that City now have Erling Haaland leading their attack.

The Norwegian sensation has made a stunning start to life in English football with 12 goals in his first seven games, including two last week in the win in Seville.

Gundogan believes having Haaland could help City finally land the big one and he added: "The Champions League is something incredible to achieve. It's a very tough competition and little details can decide the outcome.

"Hopefully having a proper No.9, someone physically strong, will help us a lot. We will see."

City's trip to Arsenal on October 19 could be put on hold until 2023 as the Gunners are set to rearrange tomorrow's postponed Europa League tie with PSV Eindhoven for that date.

"The team has to do it collectively. If we do the right things without the ball, it can be possible.

"It's important that everyone is present, be the one who makes the difference, otherwise they'll pick us apart."

Asked about City, Liverpool and Manchester United all keeping tabs on him, Bellingham played down a possible move.

"I'm here to help Dortmund win," he added.

"If I can showcase my talents, it's a bonus. To be thinking like that would be crazy – I'm just looking forward to the game."

LET'S GO POTTY

Blues boss tells stars and fans to dream big

GRAHAM POTTER has arrived at Stamford Bridge with a mission to entertain.

There was no declaration about being the "Special One" but a very clear determination to deliver trophies and also to get Chelsea playing the right way.

Potter said: "We want to entertain and we want to create our own team, our own identity.

"I want it to be recognisable so supporters recognise what we want to do, can see what we want to do and we'll fight every day for it.

"The connection between the supporters and the team is the most important thing.

"I'd love their support and everything I've heard so far makes me believe I have that and I'm very, very thankful for it.

"The team I want to see is one that's balanced in terms of attack and defence. Humble team, a respectful team that when it doesn't have the ball, it runs hard and fights."

There was never any hesitation in his mind about taking the Blues job despite the club's reputation for hiring and firing managers.

Potter said: "If we walk out the road over there, there is a risk. That's what life is. No one knows what's going to happen in the future.

"When I left England to go to Sweden I was working in the ninth tier of English football, I went to the fourth tier of Swedish football so in terms of where I sit now, there's the bottom then there's a load of levels and then there's me.

■ by JOHN CROSS

"No one can predict how it is going to go, no one knows and that's why it's so beautiful.

"It's been a whirlwind. It's moved so quickly. Nine days feels like nine weeks or nine months. But it's been brilliant. The beauty of life, the beauty of football, you never know what is round the corner.

"I spoke with my immediate family, my wife and my children. My wife, bless her, has been with me on this journey along the way so it's important for me to have this conversation.

"To work with an exciting group of players, to be competitive and to put a team on the pitch that our supporters are really, really proud of.

"So I am very excited and looking forward to getting going."

It will be a big change for the former Brighton boss who takes charge of a dressing room of internationals, European champions and big names.

He added: "The response has been really positive. A really honest group, a really responsible group.

"They have been positive around the training ground. They want to achieve, they want to do well.

"And I'm absolutely happy with the team, happy with the squad. The group has a lot of quality.

"We need to compete here, that's how it is. I have respect for the Premier League, for the Champions League, but we are Chelsea."

Eur time is now Graham

■ by JOHN CROSS

NEW Chelsea boss Graham Potter will take charge of his first game tonight admitting he has never even been to a Champions League game.

Former Brighton and Swansea chief Potter, 47, is a departure from Chelsea's previous big-name managers.

He hasn't gone to a top European match as a fan let alone taken charge of one.

Potter did manage in the Europa League and guided Swedish minnows Ostersunds to a memorable win over Arsenal.

When asked if he had ever been to a Champions League tie, Potter said: "Off the top of my head I don't think I have. So this is a good time to go into the dugout.

"I had Europa League experience with Ostersunds.

"Going to Galatasaray was a fantastic occasion, PAOK as well.

"The Europa League groups was a fantastic experience but this is an amazing evening for all of us."

Potter, who has signed a five-year contract, has been in charge for nine days.

But Chelsea's game at Fulham last Saturday was postponed and their game with Liverpool on Sunday is also off, so he is relishing this showdown with Red Bull Salzburg.

He added: "We have been trying to focus on the game. It is a heck of an introduction."

JORGINHO SAD TO LOSE TUCH

CHELSEA star Jorginho admits they had a "great time" with Thomas Tuchel – but must get used to life under Graham Potter.

Former Chelsea boss Tuchel was sacked just 16 months after leading the club to the Champions League title and now they have a very different manager in charge.

There should be no surprises at Stamford

■ by JOHN CROSS

Bridge any more but even by Chelsea's standards it has been a brutal and remarkable week of change.

Jorginho (right), who is now set for his fourth manager in four years, said: "We had a great, great time with Thomas. We appreciate everything he did for us, for the club, for the fans, for everyone.

"It was a surprise, of course, for everyone. It's not one person responsible for what happened with the team and the group on the pitch.

"Everyone is responsible. It is our responsibility as well for what happened. Now we have a new challenge to look forward to and we're very excited.

"A lot has happened, as everyone knows. We are adapting to the new coach. We are very excited to work with him and his staff.

"The first few days have been very good.

"He is a humble coach but with a really good way to work and he has this challenge.

"And I believe he is going to do very well.

"He has good ideas and a group of players who are ready to try to do the best they can."

the end you can pay. Here we paid a lot. Now we are talking about a loss against a team that showed they are used to playing this competition.

"But don't forget last season we lost against Mura in the Conference League and we made an important step forward."

Marcus Edwards was man of the match but the 23-year-old, tipped for an England call-up by boss Ruben Amorim, was allowed to leave Spurs in 2016 as a much-hyped teenager.

Edwards said: "We deserved that. We showed how we can play.

"I wouldn't say it was extra special but it was a strange feeling playing against Spurs. I was there for so long but it was good to know the people, the coaching staff and some players.

"It doesn't change. I prepare the same and focus like every other game."

Asked about an England call-up, he said: "I wouldn't say it has crossed my mind. I just focus on what I'm doing here so I don't think about that, but of course [it would be nice]."

AND you thought Tottenham had strength in depth.

Sporting Lisbon at times played Spurs off the park here before their match-winners Paulinho – no, not that one – and Arthur Gomes came off the bench to land the injury-time, two-punch knockout.

Shell-shocked Antonio Conte and his team can have few complaints about their first defeat of the season.

Sporting were slicker, sexier and more fluid with their one-touch play. In ex-Spurs playmaker Marcus Edwards they also had the man of the match.

Tottenham's well-documented summer business has deepened their squad but their fans will be wishing they'd been just a little bit more patient with attacking midfielder Edwards.

He slipped away quietly as a hyped 17-year-old, six years ago without making a single appearance. He faced up against his former club very much a man here, at times running rings around them.

Ex-Spurs boss Mauricio Pochettino probably did him no favours in 2016 when he likened the pint-sized playmaker to Lionel Messi. But, you have to say, Edwards' run to leave north London hearts in mouths, minutes before the break, was worthy of the great man himself.

From just inside the Spurs half, he left Eric Dier in a heap and Ben Davies on his backside.

He played a one-two with former Wolves forward Francisco Trincao and had more Spurs players flinging themselves at his feet in the box, then forced a fine save from Hugo Lloris.

Had Edwards scored you would not have seen or heard the end of it. If Gareth Southgate doesn't get himself over to Portugal to take a look him then the England boss really is missing a trick.

Spurs could claim to have been unfortunate to see their best chances fall to cumbersome right-back Emerson Royal.

They were also unlucky to have seen Richarlison narrowly fail to beat the offside trap before rounding keeper Antonio Adan to score in the first half. But this was Sporting's night.

In second-half injury time, right wing-back Pedro Porro rode a challenge and curled a delicious effort which Lloris did superbly well to claw to safety. From the resulting corner, Portuguese striker Paulinho headed in.

Cue pandemonium, followed by more fireworks when another substitute, Brazilian forward Arthur, added a wonder goal.

Gliding in from the left touchline, he ghosted past Cristian Romero, nutmegged hapless Royal and stroked a diagonal effort in between Lloris and Davies. An outstanding team display capped by two utterly deserved goals.

Head coach Ruben Amorim gushed about Conte pre-match but proved that he is not here to have his hair ruffled by more seasoned tacticians.

GOOD TIMES: Trippier and Southgate

Kier madness to doubt boss

by SIMON BIRD

KIERAN TRIPPIER says it is "madness" that England boss Gareth Southgate is under pressure.

The Three Lions head coach was under the cosh, with some fans calling for change, after poor performances in June, including a 4-0 defeat by Hungary.

Southgate's side looked jaded, scoring only once in four games.

Trippier is gunning for another crack at the World Cup after scoring in the semi-final in Russia in 2018 against Croatia.

Asked about the influence of the manager on England, and the disappointing summer schedule, the Newcastle defender said: "It is madness to say he is under pressure.

"Look back to when he first came. How he has transitioned everything and look at the success we have had.

"Look at the way we have played and most importantly the success we have had. We have got to the final of the Euros, semi-final of the World Cup, the Nations' League. He has done an unbelievable job.

"We didn't have the best results last camp but this is football. These things happen. I think it is madness.

"I think he is the perfect man for the job and all the boys are behind him.

"I understand the fans' frustration. We all have high expectations."

Trippier, 31, added: "It is an unbelievable thing playing for England under Gareth.

"Everything we have achieved and tried to do have come from Gareth and Steve (Holland).

"We have had so many meetings discussing what it means to represent England.

"He has made it a family. There are no egos. Everyone gets on. We eat with the kitman and groundsmen. It brings everyone together."

Trippier reckons the competition for places in the World Cup squad in November is fierce, saying: "I am focusing on the international break.

"I am up against so many right-backs. I can only do what I do.

"I give 110 per cent for my club and my country no matter what position I play. I know I need to perform early in the season. The number of players England have now is incredible."

JURGEN KLOPP had been hoping for a performance fit for a Queen.

But it took a last-ditch winner from Joel Matip to stop Liverpool from adding to the growing belief that their crown as one of football's great entertainers has well and truly slipped.

Matip's ride to the rescue might have got his side's Champions League campaign back on track but it will take much better displays than this to see Liverpool challenge for four trophies again like they did last season.

At this stage, Klopp would accept just getting out of the group stages, let alone reach a fourth European final in the last six attempts.

Mo Salah's first European goal since February on 17 minutes had suggested the hosts were all set for lift-off but a stunning equaliser from Mohammed Kudus before half-time looked like handing Ajax a well-deserved point.

But Matip squeezed a headed winner from a corner over the line in the 89th minute to see the home side win just their third game in eight this season.

Klopp used his programme notes to repeat his plea for supporters to respect the period of silence ahead of kick-off in honour of the late Queen.

"How we conduct ourselves matters," he said. "As a club we always take these responsibilities very seriously because it is the right thing to do."

When the time came it felt like football was holding its collective breath – and so it was that a cretinous few couldn't manage the simplest task of honouring someone who did so much for the nation.

Now Klopp needed a performance from his stars on the pitch that shamed those few who had let the club down off it.

Having been annihilated in Naples last week, Klopp had subjected his flops to a video nasty of the horror show and there had been some home truths spoken at the training ground in the build-up to the visit of Ajax.

FOR THE KOP

Late header rescues Klopp from another Euro disaster

season, this felt like the moment that Liverpool could find full speed.

Klopp made four changes and it was one of them, Diogo Jota, who made the first impact when he collected a downward header from Luis Diaz and picked out the unmarked Salah to his right.

With just keeper Remko Pasveer to beat, the outcome was inevitable as Salah notched his first goal in five games to make it 1-0.

Moments later Diaz dragged a shot inches wide before Salah almost grabbed his second as Klopp's men threatened to run riot.

But within 10 minutes Ajax were level when a move involving 26 passes ended with a cross from Steven Berghuis nutmegging Matip to find Kudus, who thumped an unstoppable drive off a post past Alisson. Game on. Trent Alexander-Arnold rifled a long-range effort just too high and Pasveer kept out two headers from Virgil van Dijk from close range as the game flashed from end to end.

Chances continued to come and go for both sides until Matip provided the decisive moment.

Things don't feel the same right now – for obvious reasons – and despite this win, it feels like Liverpool are still no exceptions.

Gio won't lose way

GIOVANNI van Bronckhorst will stand by his style of play despite successive 4-0 defeats ahead of Rangers' clash with Napoli tonight.

The Light Blues began their first Champions League campaign in 12 years last week with a demoralising drubbing by Ajax in Amsterdam.

That followed on from a heavy loss to Celtic at Parkhead in the Scottish Premiership.

The Gers boss, who revealed keeper Jon McLaughlin is out injured and will be replaced by 40-year-old Allan McGregor, was quizzed about a possible change but the Dutchman (below) said: "No, nothing to change about philosophy.

"Two weeks ago we qualified for the Champions League. Everything was fine.

Two defeats later it looks like we haven't performed in the last couple of years. That's football.

"I'm not changing anything about my philosophy, how I want to play. Of course there is a lot of room for improvement.

"The most disappointing thing about the last two games is that we didn't perform. That's something that has to change.

"The level we're facing in this couple of months, we have never endured that in the last 12 years so of course it's going to be tough."

Mo Salah earlier ended a four-game goalless run but Mohammed Kudus pulled the Dutch side level in the Group A clash before Matip's winner. It was a much-needed win and a massive relief for boss Jurgen Klopp, who had seen his side thrashed by Napoli in their opener last week.

BARMI ORIGAMI

Follow the instructions on the right to make your Barmi Origami. Then once you have made it, find a friend and ask them to pick a colour. Open the Barmi Origami one way, then the other to spell out the chosen colour (eg: Y E L L O W). Ask your friend to choose a number, then open the Barmi Origami one way, then the other to count out the number. Finally, choose a number, lift the flap and read out the words. Your friend must follow out the request. Take care if it is a physical challenge!

1. Cut out the square at the below right

2. Turn over so the colour squares are on the back
3. Fold in half corner to corner
4. Unfold back to a square
5. Fold the opposite way corner to corner
6. Unfold back to a square
7. Fold a corner to the centre
8. Fold the rest of the corners in
9. Turn over
10. Fold a corner to the centre
11. Fold the rest of the corners in
12. Turn over

13. Fold in half

DOT-TO-DOT CHALLENGE

Brush up your fine motor skills by joining up the dots from number 1. Try gliding smoothly from dot to dot without taking your pen or pencil off the paper.
THE INTERACTIVE ZONE

SQUARES

This game requires two or more players. The first player draws a line from any dot to any vertically or horizontally adjacent dot. The next player does the same, and the players continue to take turns drawing lines in this way. The object of the game is to form a square by joining four dots. When a player draws a line that closes a square, she writes her initials inside the square and gets a bonus turn. When all possible lines have been drawn, the player with the most initialled squares is the winner.
HANG MAN

Think of a monster, then in the blue box above, draw dashes to represent the number of letters in the word. Then the person you're playing against starts to guess letters. If the letter is in the word, write it on the corresponding dash. If the letter is not in the word then draw a line on the hangman and cross off the letter on the alphabet chart.

NOUGHTS & CROSSES

A game for two people. Each player takes it in turn to place their X or O into one of the empty squares in the grid. To win the game get three of your symbols in a line horizontally, vertically or diagonally. Take it in turns to start; best of 5.
